

CAR ACCIDENT

A boy is out driving with his mother. They get in a car accident. Mom is still stuck in the car when the son gets rushed into the emergency room. The receiving nurse sees the boy and frantically exclaims: “It’s my son!”

How can this be?

The nurse is the boy’s father who is a male nurse. The riddle is in how the boy’s mother can still be trapped in the car and be the nurse at the ER at the same time. The bias or assumption is that nurses are female.
